Success for Every Child

Date: 16 Jun 2025

Dear KJS Parents,

At KJS we have a commitment that everyone deserves to be treated with dignity, empathy, and respect - and when mistakes happen, we respond with compassion in ways that repair, grow, and build the relationships and skills people need to succeed.

In order to put that commitment into practice, we have been developing an approach called Restorative Practice and we are looking to embed this more prominently in our school culture moving into the next academic year.

What is Restorative Practice?

Restorative Practice is a way of helping children learn from their mistakes by talking about what happened, understanding how others feel, and finding ways to make things right. It focuses on building strong relationships, solving problems peacefully, and teaching responsibility, kindness, and respect.

We're excited to share that Kristy Elliott from Restorative Pathways will be joining us at Kowloon Junior School on Monday 18th August to facilitate a special parent presentation on Restorative Practices. Kristy has been working to support the KJS staff to learn more about Restorative Practices this year and we would now like to include you in this conversation.

KJS is on a journey to build a more inclusive, respectful, and compassionate learning community. Restorative Practice is a key part of this direction—helping students learn from mistakes, strengthen relationships, and grow as caring and responsible individuals.

This session is a valuable opportunity for you to:
